

THE PLOUGH, THE LOOM, AND THE ANVIL. By J. S. Skinner.

This Monthly is the great organ of the Protectionists, and Col. Skinner adopts that theory with earnestness, zeal and honesty,—a quality very rare with the monopolists. But, apart from its protective notions, which carry their own antidote with them, the magazine has much valuable agricultural information, important to most parties in our favored land.