Cloth-folding Machine. One in which wide goods are folded lengthwise, ironed and pressed ready for baling. In the example the cloth is passed over the bulging, spreading roller \( n \), which is adjustable, and between the folders, which consist of a plate bent into a sinuous form like a flattened \( S \). From the folders the cloth passes beneath the inclined steam-heated ironer \( D \), and from that to the rollers \( F F \), by which it is drawn forward.

Fig. 3343